Why not start 2018 out by looking for Paradise? We thought for this first day cruise of 2018 it would be fun to scope out Paradise Cove. This is a great stopping point for longer sails out to the Channel Islands, but for this little jaunt we'll head on up for the day. The plan is to leave early and most likely motor up to the cove, drop the hook for a leisurely lunch and if the Zephyrus¹ is kind to us, we should have a great downwind sail home.

ITINERARY

Sunday January 14th

09:30	Departure from Marina del Rey
12:00	Arrive Paradise Cove Anchor in an opening in the kelp SW of the pier (approx. 34°01'N 118°47'W)
12:30 – 13:30	Lunch and recreation in Paradise Cove (swim and snorkeling if you like).
13:30 – 16:00	Sail back to Marina del Rey

¹ Zephyrus is the Greek god of the West Wind and of course the namesake for the Cruise Chair's sailboat
